

Max-Fire . . . innovative juke-box

TAB-Austria is breaking new ground with new features for its MAX FIRE jukebox. The music industry is facing losses in CD turnover and is constantly searching for new possibilities of selling its music in a way to final customers. TAB-Austria has taken the opportunity with a unique development in the amusement and gaming industry.

A new selling point for music is born and will soon be available in every TAB-Austria jukebox. Not only through the trend towards online networking, but also through the signing of international contracts with major music labels, the novel download feature "MUSIC TO GO" which has been developed for MAX FIRE jukeboxes.

This allows a direct data transfer of music files to external data carriers like MP3 players, USB keychains and even mobile telephones. So from now on, via Bluetooth or USB interface, the newest songs can be quickly and simply downloaded with the touch of a finger for mobile use.

At TAB-Austria the days of laborious, manual updates are long gone. Since 2002 Software-Updates have already been carried out online for their own terminals.

The reasons for online access are as many-sided as they are convincing. Only online MAX FIRE can be kept up to date with the latest chart lists, songs and videos guaranteed before the weekend. The latest music is a significant success indicator for high level takings. All up-dates are managed and carried out by TAB-Austria, fully automatically.

Furthermore, the potential savings for operators on travel expenses are huge. It is all the same whether the engineer is inspecting cashbox takings, accessing metre-readings and carrying out up-dates – it all happens in seconds and from anywhere. You simply log on the internet and at once all relevant data is available.

Chris Street from CMJS Leisure (UK) said: "Max Fire is the most innovative jukebox and operators can be sure to get constant improvements on their high quality product purchase."
